cd-bk0901 | 68:00

The new album "Celestial Movements" from Bernd Kistenmacher is now available. Thank you to all the fans who have waited so patiently in the last months. The album can now be ordered and will be delivered starting November 23rd, 2009. The first 50 buyers will receive the album with original autograph by the artist "himself". This only applies to orders through the MellowJet webshop.

PressInfo:

2009. It is the International Astronomical Year and also the year, in which Bernd Kistenmacher will release his 21st solo-album "Celestial Movements". Inspired by the gigantic and as well phantastic Horizon-Observatory at landscape-park Hoheward, Ruhrgebiet/Germany, the 49 years old native Berliner wrote a soundtrack for the stars, that is incomparable.

A first foretaste was offered to Bernd Kistenmacher's fans already end of October 2009 at the cult-club "La Boule Noire" in Paris/France, where he presented his new album to public. The one's who had expected to be sprinkled with long ago battered sound patterns, has for sure been comfortably disappointed.

Bernd Kistenmacher takes his inspiration from the unexpected and surprises his audience with ever new bridgings between the different soundscapes. His music offers many aspects: once meditative, once classic, once entertaining or bombastic, but sometimes also silent and melancholic. But it is one thing by all means: wonderfully dreamlike. We are sure: the one who enjoyed the exact 68 minutes of this masterpiece will return to the beginning very quickly, because "Celestial Movements" is Bernd Kistenmacher's so far best solo-album. And that needs to be reheard not only once.
